Anchin, Block, & Anchin, LLP

Section 1 Table 104

Founded in 1923 as a three-man partnership, Anchin, Block & Anchin LLP (ABA) has developed into one of the largest and most highly respected accounting firms in the New York Tri-State area. The firm has 50 partners and a total staff exceeding 300 people. At ABA, we offer individual attention to each client in order to gain greater insight into his or her specific needs and goals. Our policy is to provide year-round service, not just year-end interaction. The breadth of our organization allows clients to have access to specialists in all areas of the profession, including taxation, business consulting, support services, pension and employee benefits, systems development and design and other consulting areas. We take pride in having been able to fill our partner and senior management positions almost entirely by promotions within the firm. The result is low staff turnover and a highly competent and dedicated group of professionals, clearly focused on serving the needs and interests of organizations such as yours. ABA has always had a strong commitment to quality and service. As a member of the Private Companies Practice Section and SEC Practice Section of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, we regularly undergo peer review examinations by independent parties to ensure that our internal accounting and auditing procedures meet the highest quality standards of our profession.

The New England Center for Children was founded in 1975 and is located in Southboro, MA, 20 miles west of Boston. NECC's primary mission is to increase the skills of children, adolescents and young adults with autism and other developmental disorders through the use of applied behavior analysis (ABA); Serving over 200 children and young adults from 69 Massachusetts towns and cities, as well as 10 other states and 4 foreign countries, NECC provides comprehensive educational, residential and clinical services in a variety of day and residential treatment programs. Many of our students, particularly those in our residential programs, display intense, chronic or seriously interfering behaviors including aggression, property destruction, and self-injury. The overriding goal is to help these students decrease their interfering behaviors and increase their ability to function independently; Toward these ends, we provide comprehensive assessment, individualized ABA programming, speech and language training, academic instruction, community-based activities, health care, student employment, adapted physical education, family services and more. A critical component of the success of our programs is the competency of our teachers, all of whom are college graduates; We provide intensive training in basic behavior analytic techniques, and all teachers must pass a graduate-level introductory ABA course during their first months of employment. In addition, we are associated with two university master's degree programs; Simmons College's masters in severe special needs and Western New England & University's masters in applied behavior analysis. Both are 3-year programs with courses taught on site and research projects and master's theses supervised on site by The New England Center for Children personnel; NECC seeks to further the understanding and treatment of autism and other developmental disorders through its dynamic on-site research program; Our research, which is disseminated nationwide, focuses on basic learning processes, teaching techniques for children with severe learning problems, managing challenging behaviors, communication training strategies, early intervention and the generalization and maintenance of treatment gains.

Social Security Administration

For over 75 years, the Social Security Administration has touched the lives of people you know. Social Security has helped millions of elderly and disabled individuals live free from poverty. With an estimated 94% of all workers covered under Social Security, new challenges require that we question the limits of the status quo, and reach beyond the realm of the usual and standard. We are one of the largest independent agencies in government with over 65,000 employees. We work at more than 1,400 field offices and service centers throughout the country, as well as regional and headquarters locations. We are one of the world’s most successful social insurance programs. We stand strong in the knowledge that what we do has real value to our customers. We truly make a difference in the lives of the American public. Knowing that, we place a high value on ensuring that our employees have every tool needed to work at their highest potential. We are proud to be consistently honored each year among the Top Ten Best Places to Work for large federal agencies.

TEACH FOR AMERICA

All kids “no matter where they live, how much money their parents make, or what their skin color is” deserve access to a great education. But in our country today, low-income children do not have the same access to a great education as their wealthier peers. It’s not easy to close this gap, but hundreds of proof points show that it’s possible. It takes committed leaders in our classrooms today who will continue to fight for students tomorrow. Teach For America’s mission is to build the movement to eliminate educational inequity by developing such leaders. We recruit committed recent college graduates and professionals of all backgrounds to teach for two years in urban and rural public schools. We train and develop these corps members so that they have an immediate positive impact on their students. We foster the leadership of our alumni as they address this problem from all sectors. We look for individuals who show leadership potential and have other traits that are found in our most successful teachers. Over the past 22 years, we’ve learned that there is no specific personality profile or background that predicts success in the classroom. Some corps members were educators prior to joining, but many do not have any prior experience in the education field. Your potential as a corps member can shine through whether you’ve led your student government, achieved academic honors, managed a complex project at work, served our country in the armed forces, or rallied support for a cause that’s important to you. And those are just a few of the countless experiences our most successful corps members bring to the table.

At Teach For China, we believe that education inequity can and must be solved. With the help of talented and passionate young leaders from China and the US, we can close the achievement gap that leaves millions of Chinese children behind every year. The need for Teach For China is clear: In high-poverty communities across China, classrooms are overcrowded, teachers are undertrained, and students are falling behind with little chance of receiving the education they need to improve their life circumstances. To meet this need, Teach For China recruits and trains the most talented and dedicated young leaders from China and the US. We work with government partners to identify schools in need of teachers and then we place our Fellows in low-income schools as full-time educators for two years. We support Fellows to become effective leaders who can profoundly change their students' life prospects, and continue to impact educational equity as alumni.

TAKE YOUR JOB OR INTERNSHIP SEARCH BEYOND THE FAIR!

Different types of employers utilize different strategies to recruit new hires. Let the CDC help you find the best way for YOU to job search!

1. START NOW! Avoid the urge to wait until the end of the semester to begin your search! A job search can sometimes take months, plus you’ll miss out on wonderful opportunities that are being posted RIGHT NOW!

2. Visit the Career Development Center: Visit us to meet individually with a counselor who can help you develop a strategy!

3. Utilize the Career Development Center Website: The CDC has the largest website at BU! Visit us at cdc.binghamton.edu to learn about resources that may help you in your search.

4. Network: This is the #1 way that people identify openings and get jobs/internships.

5. Make Smart Use of Social Media: More and more referrals start with connections made through online networks such as Facebook and LinkedIn or by sending instant job search updates via messaging feeds like Twitter.

6. Update Your eRecruiting Account and Use it to Apply for Positions: The CDC provides a web-based system to use as part of your job search. By utilizing eRecruiting you can access nationwide job and internship listings 24/7.

7. Attend Employer Information Sessions: Many employers conduct presentations to meet interested students and provide information about their organization. These are listed on the calendar feature of eRecruiting.

8. Conduct a Smart Online Job Search: Utilize industry-specific websites, generalized job boards, association websites, and employer websites.

9. Investigate Short-Term or Temporary Positions: Short-term experiences may serve as a way to gain experience, increase self-confidence, earn money, and they may lead to something more permanent. “Temping” through a temporary employment agency can be a good way to secure interim work.
