TRANSFERABLE SKILLS

As you begin your job search or consider careers that would be right for you, it is important to know what you are good at and what you enjoy doing. Over the years, you have developed many skills from coursework, extracurricular activities, internships, jobs and your total life experiences. If you've researched, written, edited and presented papers for classes, you've used skills that are not limited to any one academic discipline or knowledge area but are transferable to many occupations. A prospective employer expects you to apply the skills you have learned through your studies, work, and life experiences to the work environment.

What Skills and Qualities are Important to Employers?

According to the 2012 National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) Job Outlook Survey, the top 10 qualities/skills employers seek are transferable skills:

1. Ability to work in a team structure
2. Ability to verbally communicate with persons inside and outside the organization
3. Ability to make decisions and solve problems
4. Ability to obtain and process information
5. Ability to plan, organize and prioritize work
6. Ability to analyze quantitative data
7. Technical knowledge related to the job
8. Proficiency with computer software programs
9. Ability to create and/or edit written reports
10. Ability to sell or influence others

It is interesting to note that, without fail, communication skills and team work rank high on the list of skills employers want year after year. Which of the top ten skills do you excel in? How have you demonstrated these? How can you develop them further?

Take Stock of Your Transferable Skills

Review the lists in the following 5 categories and underline all the skills you have. Then go back and circle the 10 underlined skills you would enjoy using most. Write these top 10 skills in the spaces provided under “Ten Most Preferred Skills” and write a brief example of how you have demonstrated each skill in a job, class, internship, or extracurricular activity. This will help as you consider career options and as you prepare for your job or internship search and interviews.
