Hossein Azadi is a senior researcher at Centre for Environmental Sciences (University of Hasselt) and Department of Geography (University of Ghent), Belgium. He is also the tandem dean of the College of Business and Economics at Mekelle University in Ethiopia. His main research includes “Food & Land” policies focusing on land governance, land tenure systems, agrarian change, resilient agriculture, sustainable livelihood and vulnerability of farming systems. Recently, as a Fulbright fellow, and as a Visiting Research Associate of the Fernand Braudel Center at Binghamton University, he is conducting a study on land governance.

Wednesday, April 20, 2016
4:30 p.m.
Fernand Braudel Center
Academic A, Room 330