DECKER COURSE SCHEDULING

Scheduling courses for your first semester may seem overwhelming, but we’ve set up a brief tutorial to help you successfully build your first Binghamton schedule.

As a Nursing student, your freshman schedule should look something like this:

- Composition Course (C or J)  4
- CHEM 101    4
- PSYCH 111   4
- General Education  4
  for a total of 16 credits

We recommend that you start on your Composition and General Education requirements in your first semester.

Composition Course: Take one course that counts towards your Composition requirement. This would be a course with the C or J course designation:
  - Composition (C) courses - courses where writing assignments are 50% of your final grade
  - (J) courses - combine C and the Oral Communication requirements.

General Education: Choose a course that meets one of your other General Education Requirements. You will need several General Education courses in order to graduate.

For more on General Education Requirements, you may want to review the General Education Requirements Digital Document. [http://binghamton.edu/orientation/choose-your-courses/videos2/gen-eds/story.html]
