Welcome, my name is Anne McCall and I’m Dean of Arts and Sciences, here at Binghamton University.

We’re happy to have you join us in just a few short weeks.

In Harpur College, we dedicate ourselves to excellence, in courses on the natural world, human expression and human activities, and identities across time and space.

Our students learn sophisticated reasoning skills, quantitative, qualitative, analytical skills, reading, writing, critical thinking.

In Harpur College, you prepare yourselves for a lifetime of careers and participation in a complex world.

To help you begin your work as a student, we have prepared some interactive, easy to navigate videos.

They will help you build your course schedule and prepare for on campus orientation.

Please take the time to review these videos carefully as they will assist you in laying the foundation for your first semester here at the University and for your overall career as a student.

Again, welcome to Binghamton University and to Harpur College.

We can’t wait to meet you this fall.
