

COMMON AGREEMENTS

To have civil dialogue, we must agree to certain boundaries for the conversation. Here are Binghamton's Common Agreements: (for your dialogue you can take these, build off of them or create your own. Under resources we have guides for you to create your own common agreements.)

- One mic
- It's okay to pass or pass for now
- Adhere to time limits
- Confidentiality
- Separate people from ideas
- Speak for yourself, not on behalf of a group or anyone else in the room
- Listen with resilience
- Refrain from attempts to persuade or convert
