

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A TRAUMA SURGEON DR. ADAM FOX '92

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17 | 3:30 - 5 P.M. | UNIVERSITY UNION WEST, ROOM 324

Are you interested in a career in medicine?

Dr. Adam Fox '92 will discuss his path from Binghamton, through medical school, to his current career as a trauma surgeon. A question and answer session will follow the talk.

Alumnus Dr. Adam Fox graduated from Harpur College in 1992 with a bachelor's degree in political science. He attended both the New York College of Podiatric Medicine and the New York College of Osteopathic Medicine. He completed his residency in General Surgery and completed his fellowship training in trauma surgery and surgical critical care at the University of Pennsylvania.

After his fellowship he joined the faculty in the Division of Traumatology, Surgical Critical Care and Emergency Surgery at the University of Pennsylvania. He is currently the Section Chief of Trauma and an Assistant Professor of Surgery in the Division of Trauma Surgery and Critical Care at Rutgers University New Jersey Medical School. He is the Associate Trauma Medical Director of the New Jersey Trauma Center, University Hospital in Newark, NJ. His interests include medical education, penetrating trauma, and international trauma and disaster response.
